

Foreword

Water resource activities assigned to the Corps of Engineers in Washington state are administered by the Seattle, Portland, and Walla Walla Districts. Together the three districts constitute and are under the direction of the Northwestern Division, which has its office in Portland, OR. The division office reports to the Office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, D.C. The links to the left contain short descriptions of civil works projects assigned the districts for Washington. For more complete information regarding any project, inquiries should be directed to the district engineer of the appropriate district. The name of the district with jurisdiction is indicated in the text of each project. Addresses of the division office and district offices are given below.
